RUSSIANS DRIVE ON GALACIAN CAPITAL; HALICZ IS TAKEN

Victorious Armies of the Republic Sweep Towards Lemburg

GERMANS LAUNCH NEW OFFENSIVE Throw British Back But Are Held By the French at Several Points

(International News Service.)

Berlin, July 11.—The capture of 1,250 British prisoners in the German drive at Nieuport, Belgium, on Tuesday and last night was reported by the German war office today.

(International News Service.)

Petrograd, July 11.—Two thousand Austro-German prisoners and over 30 guns were captured when the Russians took Halicz, the key to Lemburg, the war office announced today.

Pursuit of the Austro-Germans in central Galicia continues. The Russians have advanced to the left bank of the Lomnica river.

(International News Service.)

London, July 11.—The Germans in West Flanders have undertaken a powerful offensive movement, penetrating British positions over a front of 2,400 yards and reaching the right bank of the Yser river, near the North Sea. The British positions were entered to a depth of 300 yards.

Official advices from Field Marshal Haig, the British commander, stated that allied defenses on the North Sea coast were leveled by 24 hours of heavy gun fire from German batteries.

(International News Service.)

Petrograd, July 11.—Russian troops under Gen. Korniloff that swept into Halicz, are now advancing on Lemburg along the Dniester river. On the southern side the Russians are now less than 60 miles from the coveted capital of Galicia. On the eastern side the Russians are less than 40 miles away.

The German and Austrian soldiers are making desperate resistance to the advance of the Russians, especially along the line between Halicz and Brzezany, but have been unable to stem the tide.

Halicz was one of the chief positions defending Lemburg on the southern end. Cossacks are playing an important part in the Russian advance. Over 15,000 prisoners have been captured by the Russians, as well as many guns.

ALLIED AVIATORS ATTACK GERMAN FLEET WITH BOMBS

(International News Service.)

London, July 11.—The Turko-German fleet lying in the Golden Horn has been bombarded by allied aeroplanes with good results, the admiralty announced today. A big explosion was seen to occur on the Goeben, while other warships were damaged.

Bombs were also dropped on Constantinople, a direct hit being obtained on the Turkish war-office building.

The raid was made on Monday night.

Ed. M. Orr Has Paralytic Stroke

(International News Service.)

Washington, July 11.—By executive order of President Wilson, federal officers today seized the big German cargo steamer Prinz Eitel Freiderick, which has been lying at Hoboken, N. Y., for three years, and turned it over to the shipping board as its property.

Ed. M. Orr is in a serious condition at his home on Fifth avenue, south, following a stroke of paralysis last night.

Dr. W. H. Watson, who was called at an early hour this morning to his bedside, reported that he is in an unconscious state. This is his second stroke, the first occurring about two years ago.

"Dollar" Campaign for Hospital Will Open Up Monday Morning

Committees Will Make Systematic Canvass of the Cities in Interest of Institution

The campaign for a fund of $2,000 to relieve Benevolent Hospital of indebtedness will assume a new form Monday, when a systematic canvass for dollar subscriptions will be made. Larger sums will be most cheerfully accepted. The cities have been divided into districts, and a committee assigned to each district.

The value of the hospital to the community is so well recognized, that it is believed almost every person approached will throw a dollar into the fund that will place the institution free of debt and in condition to still more for the relief of the ill and suffering.

FIGHT FOR MUSCLE SHOALS GOES ON; MUCH SURPRISE AT REPORT OF BOARD

BLACK WARRIOR RECOMMENDED
AS THE MOST AVAILABLE SITE
FOR THE BIG TWENTY MILLION DOLLAR GOVERNMENT PLANT.

WILL CONDUCT EXPERIMENTS

SEVERAL PROCESSES TO BE GIVEN TRY OUT, PREFERABLY AT POINTS IN TENNESSEE AND
VIRGINIA. TO SPEND $4,000,000.

Keen disappointment was expressed here yesterday afternoon when the Daily extra was circulated on the streets, announcing that the inter-departmental board had recommended the Black Warrior site as the most available location for the $20,000,000 government nitrate plant. After the first depression had worn off, there was a disposition to look at the matter more optimistically, and to hope that the big Tennessee river site still had a chance. The fight for Muscle Shoals will be kept up.

The findings of the inter-departmental board, as carried in news dispatches to Birmingham papers, follows:

Washington, July 11.—So far as the board of cabinet officers is concerned the Black Warrior river in Alabama seems to have the call as the most suitable location for the proposed government nitrate plant. This conclusion has apparently been reached by the inter-departmental nitrate board, composed of Secretaries Baker, Houston and Lane, who have submitted a report to President Wilson, based, it is understood, upon the investigations of the board of army engineers, who assisted them in investigating the availability of 270 sites.

They recommended that the plant be located at one of eleven points, preference being expressed in the order named, as follows: 1. Black Warrior river in Alabama; 2. Muscle Shoals in Alabama; 3. Knoxville on the Holston river; 4. New River in Southwest Virginia; 5. Ohio river at Louisville; 6. Chattahoochee river in Alabama and Georgia; 7. at Cartersville, Ga.; 8. Rome, Ga.; 9. Columbia, S. C., on the Congaree river; 10. at Augusta, Ga., on the Savannah river; 11. complete plant for nitrate at Wheeling, W. Va.

To Conduct Experiments.

The conclusions set out in the report are that at present no permanent plant be located and that experiments in the cyanide and synthetic processes should be conducted and that all the circumstances pointed to New River, Va., and the Upper Holston, near Knoxville, as places for such experiments; that four million dollars should be set aside of the available appropriation of twenty million for such experiments and that the decision on the permanent location should await decision as to experiments on cost and processes.

The report in detail sets out that the center of nitrate consumption is in the southwest corner of North Carolina and that the geographical center of the demands for such consumption is near the same place. That there are four methods for making nitrate, namely, first, electric arc system; second, cyanamide; third, cyanide; and fourth, the synthetic ammonia process; also that it could be produced as a by-product from coke ovens.

Would Require Water.

RED INK NUMBERS TO BE SELECTED BY DRAWING, NOW STATED.

Washington, July 11.—While President Wilson will not personally attend the drawing of the numbers that will determine who among America's 10,000,000 young men will fight for the nation, an official in high authority will do the work.

Secretary Baker announced today that he might do the drawing. Members of the senate and house military committee will be invited to be present.

Washington, July 11.—Although no official announcement has been made of the method to be used in the selective draft, the International News Service today is enabled to give a clear description based on good authority.

The date for choosing the 682,000 men has not been set and cannot be set until all the states have completed their plans and notified the provost marshal general's office.

A large receptacle will be used. In this will be placed black gelatine capsules containing numbers in red ink in a series running from 1 to the total number of registrations in each state. A separate drawing will be given each state, starting with Alabama and concluding with Wyoming.

When Alabama's total registration numbers in their little capsules have been deposited in the receptacle and have been thoroughly stirred, a blindfolded man will draw one capsule at a time and hand it to another. The latter will open the capsule and read the number to two clerks, who will record it. The man to whom that number is given is the one drawn into the service and must serve unless he fails to pass the physical examination or is exempted. This process will be repeated until Alabama's quota has been reached. Then taking the states in alphabetical order, the same procedure will be followed.

The "red ink" serial numbers of those who registered for military service are posted at the office of the circuit clerk, where anyone may go and ascertain his number. Each man who registered is supposed to know his number so that he may get prepared to report for service if he finds his number is drawn.

However, it is the duty of the local board to inform those selected by mail soon after the selection is made.

But anyone may see for himself without official notification whether he is selected.

THE NITRATE PLANT

AND ITS LOCATION.

It is foolish to cry over spilled milk. At the same time, the Tennessee Valley could not hope to conceal its disappointment in the recommendations of the inter-departments board named to investigate the availability of some 270 sites offered for the location of the $20,000,000 nitrate plant. To disappointment there is added surprise, for the impression had been general here that every government engineer who had ever investigated the matter had reported that next to Niagara Falls, the greatest potential water power in America is stored at Muscle Shoals.

The findings of the inter-departmental board, summed up are these: That 73,000 horse-power can be developed at Lock 17 on the Black Warrior river at a cheaper cost than at any other place in the United States; that the manufacture of nitrates is still in the experimental stage; that New River, Va., or the Upper Holston, Tennessee, are the proper places for conducting the experiments; that the manufacture of commercial fertilizer in large quantities is not seriously considered; that the location of the plant on the Black Warrior would open that stream to navigation for a distance of 100 miles; that $4,000,000 will do the work.

Just what all this means is hard to figure out. It may mean that the remaining $16,000,000 of the appropriation may be later expended for the location of a larger plant, in the event that the experiments conducted are satisfactory. It may mean that the sixteen millions will remain in the national treasury. Should the experiments prove pleasing, and should the second plant be constructed, there is a large probability that the availability of the Muscle Shoals site would be recognized. At any event, it is pretty safe to assume that so much time will have been consumed in determining the process to be used, that the present administration will have passed from power. In its stead there may rule a republican regime that would be slow to consider the claims of any southern location.

One thing that the report of the location board seems to have overlooked entirely is the vast value to commerce of opening the Tennessee river to all-year navigation. This majestic stream, second in consequence in the South, and sixth in the nation, is to remain as it has been since the American Indians fished in its waters. The findings of the board are submitted to President Wilson, who alone was entrusted by congress with the task of making the final decision. It is too much, however, to expect the executive to override the conclusions reached by the three members of his cabinet. He has had no time to give the question serious consideration, to pore over the voluminous reports of the government engineers, or to make a personal study of the availability of the 270 sites offered.

Since the plant is not to be located at Muscle Shoals, it is a matter for congratulation that it is to come to Alabama, even if the site named is one that was repudiated by the Birmingham press, one that was laughed at when it entered the contest, one that must have a few steam engines to help it pull through the dry months. Alabama's senators, who worked openly for Muscle Shoals, can find some consolation in the thought that the site selected was nearer their own bailiwicks than the one they hoped to see named. The Birmingham district, that has so signally failed to land an armor plate plant, a mobilization camp or any other good gift of the government can now boast of the prospect of adding a nitrate plant to its long list of industries, foremost of which are the big plants of the steel corporation.

Muscle Shoals will be harnessed some day. Perhaps it would mean more for the Tennessee Valley if the vast electrical power stored there is developed purely for commercial purposes. The fight will be renewed.

GERMAN PEACEAIMS.

Just what Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg told the German Reichstag regarding the terms on which the empire would be willing to terminate the war is largely a matter of conjecture. Fragmentary dispatches coming through Swiss sources quote him as saying that "Germany would fight to the last gasp." If this is true, it is evident from the very phraseology employed that the chancellor saw defeat looming up as he selected his words. A victorious leader would have spoken of triumph and victory. He would never have used the language of the desperate.

Other dispatches quote the leading newspapers of Berlin as openly advocating peace without indemnities, and also quote the leader of the clerical party in the Reichstag to the same effect. They also hint at the peace aims of Austria as being merely a return to the status quo. Such peace conditions as these, now that the central empires are beset on every front for the first time since the war began, are those of reason and prudence. They speak the general belief in the allied countries that the German people would be well content to be out of the fight and back on the same basis toward the world as they were before the declaration of hostilities.

The German attitude can be very safely summed up as this: Germany, fighting a losing war, is not in position to admit defeat. Rather than to submit to terms that must seem intolerable to the proud German mind, the empire has the right to choose between utter annihilation and a disastrous peace. One political faction, led by the chancellor, prefers to-night to the bitter end, hoping always with Micawber that something will "turn up" to change the tide of battle. The other faction, more mindful of the future and less centered on victory, would be glad to end the war without indemnities or annexations; they are convinced that better terms can be obtained now than after every resource of the empire has been exhausted.

It will occasion no surprise if the peace party wins. The resignation of Von Bethmann-Hollweg is being demanded, and nothing but the support of the militarists, who have the advantage of being in control, can longer retain him at the head of the government. The United States has thrown its weight into the balances, and the outcome is no longer in doubt. Realizing this, there is a faint hope that the war may be brought to a close by diplomacy some years sooner than it can be by fighting.

YESTERDAY'S EXTRA.

The Daily, for the information of its readers who bought yesterday's extra, feels that it should state that it issues extras purely as a matter of enterprise. They are not profitable, owing to the very limited sale. The story of the decision of the nitrate plant locating board, carried in yesterday's extra, was delayed at Birmingham, unfortunately, and for that reason did not reach this office until the entire regular edition had been run of the press. Had it come in earlier it would have been carried by the regular editions.

North Alabama seems to have made a mistake in entering the Tennessee river for the nitrate plant. Flint creek might have won. Lots of steam power could have been generated there.

Fight For Muscle Shoals Goes On

tional as requiring immense water power waste; that cyanamide required considerable water power and the cost of the method is high. The cyanide process required little power, but considerable skill, the same being true of the synthetic ammonia process. That the cyanamide and synthetic ammonia processes are practically in the experimental stages, but had great promise, and while success is assured further experiments should be made on a large scale.

The factors that went to the selection of the locations related to proximity to center of demand of the products such as fertilizer and munitions, the water power and expense involved in developing it, the convenience of raw material, such as coal, coke and lime, also labor and climate conditions.

Steam As An Assistant.

That the Warrior river, according to the proposed plan, would produce 79,000 horse power for the 24-hour period, and could be developed with an increase to 100,000 horse power by the operation of an auxiliary steam plant during the dry season, with coal to be supplied from government land nearby in Alabama. That the cost would be $91 per horse power for installation with all needed improvements; that raw material is convenient and labor conditions excellent and that 100 miles additional navigation would be added to the stream. That the time in which the plant could be constructed represented a minimum as compared with other sites.

Is There a Rush?

That Muscle Shoals, according to the plan proposed, would develop 60,000 horse power at a cost of $267 per horse power, complete installation, and that it would require five years to complete the improvement.

Knoxville site would produce $44,000 horsepower at a cost of $200 per horse power for installation on the Holston river point; New River, 100 horse power at $160 maximum cost of installation; Ohio river at Louisville, 100,000 horse power, $95 per horse power installation; Chattahoochee, 70,000 horse power at $100 cost per horse power, and Cartersville, 25,000 horse power at $210 per horse power for permanent installation.

WAS FILLED WITH CURIOSITY

He Was Just Waiting to See Whether Wife Would Carry Out Threat to Go Back to Mother's.

The man was standing behind a tree in front of an apartment house in a cross street when the cop on that beat came pounding along on the sidewalk. It was close to midnight and naturally the cop stopped and looked at the man standing behind the tree.

"Howdy," says the cop, by way of opening conversation.

"You're another," replied the man good-naturedly.

"Whuchuh doh—waitin' for somebody?" inquired the brave policeman.

"None."

"Just standin' there, hey?"

"You've hit it."

"Live near here, do you?"

"Right in there," says the citizen jerking his thumb in the direction of the apartment house he was standing in front of.

The cop looked at him thoughtfully for a minute.

"Mebby it's none of my business," he says, "and then again mebby it is. I don't like to go 'round buttin' into anybody's private affairs, but tell me, neighbor, what's your graft, anyhow?"

"Well," loosened up the citizen, "if it's a case of me a-tellin' you or you croakin' from curiosity right in front of my eyes, I'll tell you how it's provided it don't go any further. My wife says to me when I started downtown this evenin': 'If you're not home by midnight I'm goin' to pack up and go right back to mother's. So there!'"

"Well?" says the cop.

"Well," repeated the citizen, "it's just about midnight now, and I'm like you—I've got curiosity. I'm waitin' here to see if she's goin' to keep her word."

The cop's curiosity ceased at that point, and he walked on down the street, whistling without waiting to see the thing out.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Insurance Policy and Marriage.

"The important thing is that the insurance policy—big or little—should come into every home with the marriage license. It should precede the savings bank account, the home, yes, even new clothes, or butter on the table. No man has a right to take a girl out of her father's home without protecting her from starvation in case of the accident of death."

"There comes the unhappy word again—death. Yet the shadow of it need not rest heavily upon us. The unfortunate thing about a will is that it is associated in the average man's life only with death. It should be associated with life. The time for a man to make a will is today, while he can do it with a smile on his lips and the jests and good wishes of his witnesses ringing cheerily in his ears. Such a man cannot cheat death of its ultimate victory; but he robs it of its sting, for he has made death powerless to bring poverty and distress to those who are left behind."—Woman's Home Companion.

My strength rapidly left me and I could not get relief, although I tried many medicines. Doan's Kidney Pills removed every symptom of kidney complaint. Ory Gets Contract
For Guard Uniforms

Thirty men had measures taken last night. Ten more today.

The Albany Home Guards are feeling good this morning because they had their measures taken last night, not for their first civilian suit, but for their new military uniforms. The contract to order the uniforms was awarded to S. E. Ory. Thirty men had their measures taken last night and about ten will have the work done today.

A subscription will be raised to pay for these uniforms. Citizens of the town have expressed their willingness to provide the men with equipment who have volunteered to drill and practice for any emergency that might arise.

A representative from Athens was at the drill last night in order to get an idea of how to organize a home guard for that town. He stated that over a hundred had signed up for this work.

IMMIGRATION —and the L&N

men and women of integrity, and ability to create and develop—is essential to the prosperity of every country.

Realizing this, the L. & N. has maintained for a number of years a thoroughly equipped and efficiently managed Department of Immigration and Industry.

No section of the globe is more pregnant with rich natural resources than the balmy, fertile South. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended by the L. & N. to induce immigration of the highest type to come to the South to develop and increase property values, and create those social and community interests which make life worth while.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE RAILROAD CO.
The Old Reliable

After these immigrants come South the L. & N. supplies men expert in every line of farming, cattle and poultry raising, fruit and berry culture, mining, manufacturing, merchandising—in fact everything from tick eradication to locating a factory site—to confer with and advise the immigrants in the best uses of Southern facilities and opportunities.

This L. & N. service is not confined to new arrivals, but demonstration cars and excursions are conducted throughout the entire L. & N. territory and all interested may attend and gain the benefits.

The service, which is free to the people, is cheerfully paid for by the L. & N., because the L. & N. knows the development and prosperity of the South means the development and prosperity of the L. & N. The interests of the L. & N. and the interests of the South are mutual.

DEATH RESULTS FROM INJURIES

AARON JONES, HURT WHEN POLE
BROKE, PASSED AWAY TODAY.

Interment will follow at the City cemetery. Deceased is survived by his wife and parents.

"Y" CAMPAIGN IS BUZZING ALONG

TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIVE MEMBERS SECURED IN TWO DAYS.

The teams over-reached the mark by thirty or more names yesterday in the membership campaign of the local Y. M. C. A. The city team, which was lagging some the first day, is now putting on the whole armor and the memberships secured and the promises they have, reflect much credit on their loyalty and efforts. Major Chas. Bassett, who is manager for the city team, states that personally he had actually written only six new members, but that assurances given him warranted him in saying that he would write as many as twenty members today. Mr. Bassett stated that his team had reported to him about twenty-five names, with the request that no tabulated statement be made public at this time. He said that his men were eager and staunch in their determination to raise their quota of the total of 600 required. "I have no doubt of our success" was the old leader's final comment.

THE SHOPS ON THE OFFENSIVE.

The vigorous offensive of the L. & N. shop employees which broke out on the very first day of the campaign slowed down yesterday, the shop teams writing only 75 new members, but their over subscription of the previous day, added to the new names secured by the city team, brings the total of the two days up to 230, thirty more than the number required.

John K. Walsh was the individual leader yesterday, with a total of 13 names and his nearest competitor is Ott Hames with nine names.

Tomorrow morning the racers will have reached the far circle of the race track, and will then turn toward the home stretch. With this in view it is of interest to conjecture from their present speed as to who will come under the wire first. A glance at the record at once shows a surprise. A "dark horse" is seen in the lead for the individual prize. And it is not Hames or Bassham or Coolidge, but none other than D. C. Landers, on whom shrewd betters are placing their money. Mr. Landers leads all for individual work. He has 21 names to his credit. Ott Hames is running second with 20; Bassham is third with 19, and Jack Coolidge is fourth with 18 names. So it is anybody's race so far as the shops go.

But it is quite possible that the city team is crowning a dark horse all of their own who will sweep all stakes.

THE STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

Capt. L. W. Lee, who has been a veritable "wheel horse" in the campaign, has his team in first place, but is tied by Capt. Hames' team, as is shown by the table below:

Team No. 1.—L. W. Lee, captain, second day, 25; first day 22; total 47.

Team No. 2.—F. M. Schilcer, captain, second day, 17; first day, 20; total, 37.

Team No. 3.—B. D. Bassham, captain, second day, 8; first day, 28; total, 36.

Team No. 4.—Chas. Hutchison, captain, second day, 10; first day, 23; total, 33.

Team No. 5.—Ott Hames, captain, second day, 15; first day, 32; total, 47.

Names sent in, 5.

PARAGON OF DOGS

Steamboat Captain's Pet Was in Class by Itself.

One Performance, However, Brought Argument Whether He Was Wisest of His Kind or Plain Canine Fool.

The bulldog of the Esmeralda, packet freighter for the settlements between Portland and Machias, in intelligence and accomplishments, is reckoned a paragon of dogs. In Portland he walks uptown with the captain and returns alone with any purchases and newspapers which may be intrusted to him. He even brings back meat, and this quota of self-restraint puts him in a class by himself. Holman Day writes in Harper's Magazine.

One day, according to legend, this dog was actor in an affair which has been debated warmly ever since; it gives rise to the argument whether the dog is the wisest of his generation or just a plain canine fool. There is no middle ground among the disputants along the water front. The event itself was sufficiently grotesque to merit mention.

The captain decided to test the dog's intelligence as a shopper. Therefore he put a coin into a basket which he hitched to the animal's collar, and then rapped his knuckles on an outspread newspaper, getting the dog's undivided attention. Lastly, he pointed up the wharf and told the dog to "Get it." Fido obeyed with alacrity and went up the wharf's roadway in a cloud of dust.

At the head of the long wharf there was a bold terrace of a little park where Irish caretaker had turned out to graze his pair of pet goats, hitched together with a short leash. The dog dashed up the terrace and overtook the frightened goats, setting his jaws on the leather leash with his best grip. The goats leaped from the embankment, carrying the dog with them, and landed on a fruit peddler's dozing horse, a goat on each side; like saddlebags; the leash held; and so did the bulldog. Down the wharf went the outfit, and the terrified horse did not pause when he reached the end; he leaped over the rail of the Esmeralda and went flat on deck in a tangle of harness, goats and dog.

After matters had been set right, including pay to the fruit merchant and apologies to the goat owner, the captain took Fido to one side and disparaged his intelligence, rapping his knuckles once more on the newspaper and informing the canine shopper that he had not been sent for goats or bananas.

"Just a minute, sir!" broke in the cook, who was listening. "Do you notice what you have been rapping your hand on?"

The captain looked at the sheet. It carried a big advertisement of bock beer with a goat rampant in the middle of it.

Helmet Save Soldiers' Lives.

A British medical correspondent commenting upon some recent French statistics, says: "Out of 55 cases of head injury it was found, for example, that 42 occurred in soldiers who wore no helmets. Among the 42 there were 23 fractured skulls. The remaining 19 cases suffered from severe scalp wounds. Among the 13 cases which wore helmets there was not a single fracture of the skull; eight showed some concussion effects, and five had slight wounds. A considerable number of the unprotected cases died; none of the protected died. The most significant fact which has emerged since the helmet was introduced was emphasized by Doctor Roussey at the Academy of Medicine last year. He said that the percentage of cases showing wounds in the head had increased. The reason was, of course, that the number of sudden deaths from the cause had markedly decreased."

GOOD YEAR FOR DOCTORS.

"This is certainly a great year for doctors," remarked an interne, according to a New York correspondent. "Only a few years ago there were so many M. D.'s with their shingle out here that some of them had to take up other business to keep the wolf from the door. But now there is a dearth of these professional men. In fact, they are so scarce that almost every day editorials or advertisements are printed calling for 10,000 doctors for the French army or 15,000 doctors wanted on the British battle front. The figures are growing all the time, and very soon it is likely, unless Russia recovers quickly from her 'political and social delirium tremens,' we shall receive a demand for 50,000 alienists for the Russian revolution. It is a great pity governments don't really appreciate what a doctor's life is worth over there."

Police Officer to Patrol the Beach

The Riverview bathing beach is to be protected by a police officer. Mayor Payne announced today that he would station a patrolman at the beach to preserve order and prevent possible rowdyism, as well as for the protection of property.

Excavating for the office building to be erected by Judge John C. Eyster on West Johnston street, next to the Masonic theatre, has begun. However, it is not the intention of Judge Eyster to proceed at once with the construction work, it was stated today, the excavating being done at this time largely as a matter of convenience.
